DATE: November 14, 2012

Dear EZIZ users,

It's almost National Influenza Vaccination Week (NIVW), which is observed December 2-8, 2012!—This is another opportunity to remind your patients 6 months and up that it's not too late to get a flu vaccine. The Immunization Branch at the California Department of Public Health has numerous resources that can help you promote flu vaccine and hand hygiene to your patients, including:

- Flu Reminder Postcards for pediatric patients (English/Spanish)
- Flu Flyers for Parents (English/Spanish)
- Flu Flyers for Families (English/Spanish)
- Real stories of people affected by influenza
- A fun holiday jingle to promote hand hygiene
Jingles are available in English and Spanish.

Some of these materials can be ordered for FREE from your local health department. You can find many more flu materials on EZIZ. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention also feature several flu materials, web tools, and other resources for health care professionals.

This holiday season, spread the love, not the flu. Get your flu vaccine and encourage others to get it, too!
