

If You Work or Volunteer
in a Child Care Setting...

Protect Against Measles, Whooping Cough, and Flu

Child Care Staff and Volunteers Need Proof of:

- ✓ Flu vaccine — every year
- ✓ Pertussis (whooping cough) vaccine
- ✓ Measles vaccine

Protect Yourself

Child care staff and volunteers in California are now required to show proof of vaccination against these dangerous diseases: measles, whooping cough, and flu.

Protect Our Children

You can spread deadly diseases even before you feel sick. Getting vaccinated helps keep the children you care for safe.

Avoid Missing Work

If you get sick, you can miss weeks of work. Vaccines are safe and help you stay healthy.

Have Questions? •

Ask your doctor or pharmacist about any other vaccines you may need. Contact your Child Care Licensing Regional Office (<http://bit.do/regionaloffices>) for questions on the new requirement (SB 792).*

*Day care center teachers (but not volunteers and other employees) may now provide a certificate indicating they have been assessed for tuberculosis (TB) risks, and if risk factors identified, have been found to be free of infectious TB per Health and Safety Code section 121525.
